

HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

Gillett's Lye has long been regarded as a household necessity because of the fact that it is useful in so many ways, and so satisfactory in every respect that no woman feels that she can keep house without it. Makes the finest kind of soap for washing and cleanses. One can of Gillett's Lye will make ten pounds of good soap in twenty minutes. Many of its uses are shown in booklet under the label.

"GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT"
Made in Canada.

PEOPLE, BOOKS AND THINGS

A WEEKLY CASUIRE OF MATTERS—TREATED IN LIGHTER VEIN

ACTIVITY IN REGINA BOARD OF TRADE.—SOME TOP-
ICAN BUILDING SCHEMES.
A REAL SHORTAGE OF HOUSES—WANTED, PRACTICAL PLANS.

THE HOUSING QUESTION IN THE WEST—THEORY AND PRACTICE.—CANADIAN AND AMERICAN LITERA-TURE.—LONGFELLOW
AND MARK TWAIN—CAL-IFORNIA OF FORTY NINE
—THE STORY OF MIG-GLES.

The Regina Board of Trade has been entering on a period of activity. A drive was recently undertaken for new members and it was successful. The idea was that great things should be done to promote the commercial, financial and social welfare of the capital city of Saskatchewan. The first of these activities was the discussion, the other night, of the housing problem. The speaker of the evening was the Hon. Geo. Bell, a former member of the Saskatchewan Government, and he went into a long explanation of various housing schemes which were encouraged in England during the war. The address was much more academic than practical, which was also true with one or two exceptions, of the discussion which followed.

Mr. Bell's exposition showed clearly that the housing schemes in use in England, Australia, New Zealand and elsewhere, were only applicable to the situation whose means did not prevent them from putting out capital necessary to buy homes of their own in the usual manner. He laid great stress on the fact that all these schemes provided that there should be no unsecured increment caused by the increasing price of the property by reason of building operations, or that if an inflation of land prices should occur, it should inure to the benefit of the scheme. This was the line followed by most of the speakers who came after Mr. Bell, and it seemed to me there was a great deal too much theory and too little of practical plan. One gentleman expressed his doubt as to whether there was a housing problem in the cities and towns of Saskatchewan at all and made a motion that there should be a committee to investigate.

The facts are very patent. There is a tremendous shortage of houses and it is militating very seriously against the development. Industrial concerns will hesitate to establish themselves in places where no workers can find houses. Rents in places like Regina are becoming almost prohibitive. A new house in which seven rooms were unfurnished is bringing $100 per month, and if the present convention continues some people will have to sleep in the streets and parks. The reason for the shortage is that house building is not going on and the reason that house building is not proceeding is that the cost of labor and material is most unreasonably high. In Regina, for instance, it is not only the cost of labor, but the cost of houses; it is practically every section of the community, and it is not a paternal government controlled housing scheme that will give relief; we need some stimulus to individual effort.

Talking about "curbing the unearned increment" was just so much twaddle. If you take away controlled housing scheme that will give relief, you remove one of the strong motives. It was to a great extent the "unearned increment" that furnished the motive for the building of Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Calgary, and many other western cities. What we need is some scheme whereby builders' supplies can be obtained at reasonable figures at wholesale instead of retail. Advantageous contracts may be made for lumber with the big mills at the Pacific coast, and were an interested municipality to purchase the whole sale buying direct from the manufacturers, the present cost of material would be cut down very much. It is true that rates from the Pacific mills are high, but there is no reason why some arrangement could not be made in this respect. Last year when there was an acute shortage of hay in western Saskatchewan and Alberta, arrangements were made to transport a great quantity of fodder free of charge. There was an urgent need of food for cattle, but there is nearly as urgent a need for material for building purposes to provide shelter for women and children. It should, therefore, be possible to make some arrangements to ameliorate freight rates in this respect. Municipal or co-operative brick plants and gravel pits would also help the situation.

In any case the situation is a very serious one and it is time that our Boards of Trade and other organizations cease philandering in the academic standpoint and get down to practical and constructive business.

In lamenting the paucity of Canadian literature one often hears the idea expressed that it is impossible for a very young country to have a literature of its own—that stirring history, and tradition, and the favour of age are all required. Probably this is true, and in time Canada will produce real poets, and historians and weavers of the true romance. At present our literary productions are neither distinguished for their quality nor their quantity. Apart from the works of a few of the French-Canadian writers, some of whom have displayed real merit, there are only a few books—and are very few at that—which are entitled to an enduring place in the literature of the Dominion.

Fuel and foremost, there is Francis Parkman, who in his books dealing with the "Old Regime," has left us a glowing and accurate picture of the romantic days of New France; of seigneurs and governors; of Indian wars and massacres of expedition which penetrated into the untrodden wilderness, so remote as to be almost mythical. La Salle and Hennepin; of Maisonneuve and Montcalm; and of Wolfe, whose dying eyes kindled at the hands of the British. Parkman told a moving tale with vigor and dramatic force; and his history is accurate. He is the only writer of the first rank who is entitled to a place in our literature.

The "Golden Dog" of Kirby, although of an entirely different type, will undoubtedly remain a classic. It is neither a work of genius, nor of intensity, but it is sympathetic and painstaking, and is a true picture of Quebec in the days when French Colonial policy was decided by the caprice of Pompadour, or a Dubarry, and French feudalism flourished on the banks of the St. Lawrence. Perhaps too much pains is taken with detail to furnish the glacial march of events so popular in the modern novel; but nevertheless, the "Golden Dog" is accurate in its history, and is perhaps the most reliable picture we have of the life of the people of New France during one of the most interesting periods in the life of the country.

Judge Haliburton, with his "Sam Slick" series is also entitled to honorable place, but apart from these three, there is little room for our literature.

Nor have the United States produced many more notable authors. They console themselves with saying "We are still young, give us time and we will manufacture an author who will lick creation."

It is notable that most of the real literature which has been produced in the United States came into being when the country was young. Of course, there was a reason for this. America was still English, if not in government, in tradition and sentiment. The Virginia soldiers, who were leaders in the Revolution, fought for the freedom that was their British heritage, and with the possible exception of their owning black slaves were as English in their thoughts, life, and customs, as their land-owning ancestors in Kent, Gloucester or the north country. Those who had a "fair" for literature, were the beneficiaries of Chaucer, Shakespeare, Milton, the Elizabethan dramatists, and the ancient romances. These writers had been so familiar in England by the classical renaissance which preceded them, that they were almost a literary work in the English language, the James I translation of the Bible.

The period when the British influence was still paramount in American education and literature was the richest which so far has occurred in that country. When it passed and a time was reached when the people of the United States were straining after a literature characteristic of their country, there was a considerable hiatus, and so far no really great American modern author has put in appearance.

Washington Irving, the voluminous biographer of the West, and the creator of the mythical Rip Van Winkle, the graceful writer of the "Sketch Book," and "As I was going down the river," was unquestionably of the period of the English influence. He was also true to Edgar Allan Poe, perhaps the most noted of American authors; and of Nathaniel Hawthorne, the creator of that wonderful romance of pathos and human suffering, "The Scarlet Letter."

Samuel Clemens, who wrote under the name of "Mark Twain," was a period writer, who was and the most successful of American authors characteristic of his own country, but although his works contain passages of pathos and strength, he was essentially a humorist, and when a writer goes so obviously for humor and merry making, it is a little difficult to take him with the seriousness of a great figure in the literature of his country. Yet Mark Twain was very nearly that.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was a graceful and scholarly man of letters, but he might have been an Oxford professor, or any other English-speaking author, and there was little in his works to identify him with his own country.

Longfellow is the only American who could claim to be a poet, and he, at best was only a graceful writer in verse. He had none of the fire, intensity and power of genius. He did, indeed, give expression to some heroic description and splendid passages, but they were borrowed. The Saga of King Olaf, with its ring of combat, its stock of ships, and the death of his heroic champions was borrowed from the Heimskinnla of Snorsson, an Icelandic skald, whose sagas have been passed around the winter hearth fires of Iceland for a thousand years; the haunting lines:

"For a boy's will is the wind's will,
And the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts," are taken from an old Lapland song; and many of his sentiments are true and artistic.

Of American modern writers Bret Harte is one of the most outstanding. He wrote of an epoch in American history—of the California of '49, when picturesque Castilians still lived like patriarchal kings on their great domains; when Mexican bandits and Vanduques in all their brave attire, owing lazos and performed equestrian prodigies; when the lure of gold baffled the minds of the people, and the poorer ships ran Horn and raced into Frisco down their Easting off Golden Gate.

Bret Harte's golden days are vivid

The Personal Side

PROMINENT WESTERN CHARACTERS—SOME INTERESTING ANECDOTES OF PEOPLE WE ALL KNOW

MRS. COLEMAN

Everyone in the west will sympathize with D. C. Coleman, Vice-President of the C.P.R., in the sad bereavement which he has recently experienced. His wife was drowned, whilst holidaying at Lake Windermere Camp, a beautiful place in Columbia Valley. Mr. Coleman is known to a great many people in Western Canada. He is a young man, in the very prime of his life and occupies one of the most important positions in the eye of the public. In addition he is a man of amiable and pleasant characteristics and the friends of the family are legion. He and his wife and two small sons made a charming and affectionate family circle. Mrs. Coleman, who was married in 1906, was born at Cranbrook, in B.C., and passed most of her childhood with her parents in Calgary. She was a very active woman, and very fond of the out-of-doors. She was an accomplished horse woman, skater and swimmer and the life and soul of any gathering. She was engaged also in many philanthropic activities. Mr. Coleman, as a relaxation from his arduous duties has always taken a great interest in literary matters and devoted particular attention to the history of Western Canada. He has a library, devoted to a great extent, to books on Western Canada, and his wife was as keenly interested in these subjects as himself. She was a real helpmate, and the sympathy of everyone in this wide, western country goes out to the bereaved husband and two little boys, who have been left motherless.

and real. When I went down the Sacramento Valley a few years ago, for the first time, I felt that I knew the region from his descriptions. As the Shasta Limited with its dining car, and observation; its coloured attendants, its stenographer and valet service; and all its modern appointments, swung past a fragment of woodland California to me as if I had been Hamelin must ride out of the trees, dressed in frock coat and top hat, his horse caparisoned in the Spanish style, and wave his sombrero at us. That river was naked before the red-headed and bearded miners who by rights should have been engaged in the hectic search for gold; and surely in yonder bend of the trail the cloud of dust presaged the arrival of the old Concord coach, with its four horses, the wheeler trotting fast, and the leaders at the gallop, the shot gun messenger with his weapon ready against road agents, and Yuba Bill himself, handling the lines. Bret Harte lived in the California of the forty-niners and he has left us a picture of them that may never fade.

Yet at times when he went outside of the golden state that was peculiarly his own, he degenerated. California to him was just a place and inspired him. There is an uneven measure in his work. Some of his narratives are obviously artificial and others bear the imprint of real genius. "Tennessee's Partner" and "Miggles" are real classics. The story of Miggles is one of absorbing human interest and pathos. A fresher, and a rainstorm along a mountain road had halted the stage coach, and the passengers sought shelter in a cabin in the forest, the only occupants of which were, an insensate paralytic of a man who fell from his chair unless he was propped up, and a splendid vigorous girl. She was handsome and attractive, and the passengers with the gallantry native to California paid her great attention. At length to disarm them she told them the simple yet heroic story of her condition.

She had been the public beauty of a nearby mining town, and the poor paralytic nodding so childlike at the cracking heart fire was "Jim." Everyone knew her in the town, she said pathetically, and everyone had a right to know her. The rough men of the river bars, and the mountains, and the rougher, brought her rich tribute. One day Jim came in and sat in her parlor and fell under a stroke. He had lived hard, she said, and the doctor declared that he would never be better. "He had spent a sight of money on me," said the girl, "and I am fixed to take care of him."

So cashing in her gold and trinkets, she had built the cabin in the wilderness and brought this poor relic of a man to the sweet woodland life of the mountains, to care for him while his life lasted. The passengers listened to this simple recital before the hospitable open fire place, while the rain beat on the roof, and the wind stirred a hundred rustling noises in the forest. When morning came, bright and clear, and they went on their way, Miggles, a picture of health and wholesome beauty, waved them a farewell from an eminence. In the wild sweet freshness of a mountain morning she seemed the apotheosis of the spirit of the place.

I have overrun my space this week, but next week will try to tell you something of a more modern American author who gave promise of great things before he was cut down in the pride of his youth.

Wm. Hamilton

Stop Profiteering
Mayor T. L. Church of Toronto, has written to Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of the Dominion, and Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce, urging that the Dominion Government at once drastic action to curb profiteering in food and other necessities of life.

Big Trade Board
An Alberta Board of Trade, to be composed of representatives of the boards in the various centres, will be held in Edmonton in October. The idea is to have a provincial clearing house for ideas, complaints and campaigns of interest to the business community.

JERRY ON THE JOB---Some Bad Indian

THE REDCLIFF REVIEW

W. H. HATCHER Proprietor and Business Manager
ED. L. STONE Editor
SUBSCRIPTION RATES
In Canada and Britain $2.00
United States $2.50

Advertising Rates Furnished on Application.
Issued on Thursday of each week at Redcliff, Alberta.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1920.

DESERVING OF SUPPORT.

It will be good news to our readers to learn through a news item in this issue that an effort is being made by some of our leading citizens to re-organize the band. We sincerely hope their efforts will be successful and that they will meet with the support and encouragement which the movement deserves.

In matters of this kind everyone concerned should remember that no matter what his or her position in a community, all have an important part to play and a duty to perform as citizens if they are going to do their share in helping to make their town or community a better place in which to live. This is especially true of the smaller centers where it is out of the question to look for or expect financial remuneration for services rendered, and because of this these services are all the more honorable and praiseworthy.

A few weeks ago the government put considerable work on the main road between here and Medicine Hat and ever since it has been impossible to use it. Auto drivers and teamsters have made roads for themselves on either side of this main trail without any expense to the country, and these are being used in preference to the government's road. It has been suggested that the road between here and the Hat should be a government demonstration road. It is, all right.

Just one more reminder to those who have not as yet registered their names so as to be able to vote on the prohibition question which will be submitted to the people of this province next month. Get your names on the list if you want a vote.

Lovely Regions in the Canadian Rockies

Pictureque Windermere B.C.

If the beauty of the Canadian Rocky Mountains, north of the line between the Dominion and the United States, is not the grandest in the world it is certainly lovely as anywhere, and it is the loveliest on the American continent. The story of the European Alps is dimmed by the towering snow-capped peaks of the Rockies. Travellers on the Canadian Pacific Railway from Calgary through Banff, Lake Louise, Field and Glacier on to the Pacific Coast view a land in which they feel themselves transferred to an earthly paradise.

The gigantic heights, the snow-capped peaks, the rugged borders, the plants growing in the sand and rock crevices up as far as the snow line are amongst the most impressive features of the Rocky Mountains. How the builders of the C.P.R. ever were able to excavate their way through this region is one of the wonders of the world.

Visitors whose time is limited should anyway explore a portion of the Rocky Mountain Park and stay off at Banff and Lake Louise, points where the C.P.R. has built luxurious hotels, beautiful, good roads radiate from these spots and automobiles or ponies can be engaged to bring the tourist right into the heart of the best scenic regions.

Banff is situated at an altitude of 4,531 feet in the Canadian National Park. This Park is a natural reservation of 6,732 square miles embracing part of the Bow River valley, numerous small rivers and several towering mountain peaks. Banff National Park is the largest in the world. Cascade Mountain, 12,821 feet high, looks down on Banff. Beyond the lake and the hotel looks out on the Bow river valley. Banff is still a part of the mountains, and the Zoological Garden contains only Canadian wild animals. Banff Museum possesses many valuable objects of native life. In the Museum there is a visitors' book in which a space is provided for each visitor to Banff. Looking over the lake, one is interested enough to take a note of some of the specimens in the Banff there are a few.

Banff is unsundered by beauty.

"How would that my tongue could ever tell the thoughts that swirl in my mind."

"Almost happy, but happy." Banff is the place to go to for a lovely holiday. Let us be happy while we can.

"What more can anyone desire?"

"Cannot be beaten."

"Beyond description."

Banff Springs Hotel

"If I do not go to heaven when I die, I would like to go to Banff next to heaven."

"Here one may look upon the face of God."

Scaplanes are employed to give visitors to Banff unusual thrills this year. They are being used in preference to aeroplanes because the lakes in the mountains offer landing and take-off stations for them, whereas such facilities are not available for the ordinary machine. The lake at Banff has been secured as the base of operations, and flights over the mountains and to other isolated lakes are projected.

The lake known as Lake Louise is a small sheet of water surrounded by mountains on all sides but one, and on this open side stands the Chateau Lake Louise looking out on the lake and the heights above. The Chateau Lake Louise at different periods of the day puts on the most wonderful array of green which baffles description. Some of the mountains at Lake Louise are Saddleback 7,893 feet high, Fairview 9,000, Lefroy 13,282, Victoria 11,556, Whyte 8,716; Big Bend 7,480. Spring guides conduct mountain climbing parties at Lake Louise. Ponies are largely used for climbing the trails on the mountain sides. From the Chateau Lake Louise is a nice climb to the lakes by the

CHURCH NOTICES

CHURCH OF THE BROTHERN,
Baptist Church.
Sunday school at 10 o'clock a.m.
Preaching at 11 a.m.
Everybody welcome.
David Hollinger, pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Rev. Wm. Shearer, D. D., pastor.
Morning service at 11 o'clock;
Topic: "The Great Commission."
Evening service at 7 o'clock; text of sermon: "A Greater Than Solomon is Here."

Sunday school at 2:30 p.m.
Rally Day, Sept. 26th.
Laying of corner stone of new church, Sept. 29th.

ENGLISH CHURCH.
Rev. C. F. Orman, rector.
Holy Communion 8 a.m.
Matsins 11 a.m.
Sunday school 12:15.
At three o'clock in the afternoon, vespers will be conducted at Terra Nova school.
Evening (Redcliff) 7:30.

CATHOLIC CHURCH.
Until further notice services will be held in Crowe's hall on the fourth Sunday of each month.

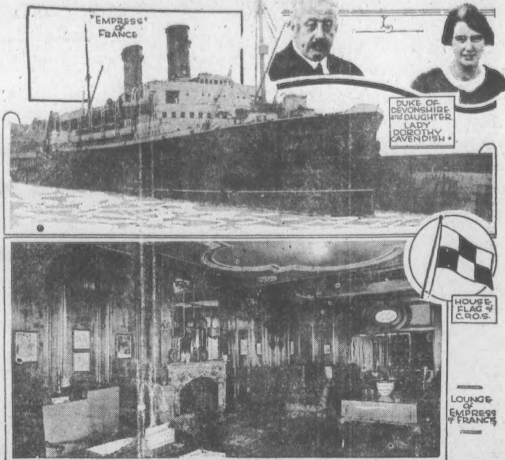

CARD OF THANKS.

As I have sold out my livery and leaving business as an athlete lady this opportunity of thanking my customers and friends who have supported me during the past nine years. For the present the dry business previously conducted by me will be run by the Redcliff hotel, with D. Broadfoot as manager, and I trust the same patronage extended to me in the past will be continued to Mr. Broadfoot.

E. HUBE.

It is conservatively estimated that Canada's revenue from oil and gas this year will be $162,500,000 from a yield of $65,000,000 bushels.

Duke of Devonshire Keeps His Date

Canada is crowding over the Pacific a net Canadian Pacific Ocean Service liner, the Empress of France, John N. B. March 13th. The Duke of Devonshire promised Sir Auckland Geddes, by cable, that he would preside at a dinner given to the new British Ambassador at the Washington by the Canadian Club at the Prince's Restaurant. Finally, the Duke's visit, however, was to attend the wedding of his daughter, Lady Dorothy Cavendish, to Captain David MacCallister.

He was to sail on the Empress of France. Things looked bad at the start when the boat's schedule read "Sailing from St. John, N. B. March 13th." The 13 was a hoodoo right enough because a terrible male set in, with such fury that it was deemed advisable to delay the sailing twenty-four hours.

Capt. Cook, the commander, consulted by the Duke, gave a solemn promise. "Your Excellency will be in Liverpool at the appointed time on the stroke of the clock—if the ship's engine can manage it." Steam

Nelson and The Kootenay

Nelson B.C.

The same Kootenay has long been familiar to the mining and lumbering world. Kootenay has extensive, varied and rich mineral deposits and every valley and mountain side is a storehouse of valuable timber. The city of Nelson, on the Kootenay Lake, is the distributing centre for the district, from which the wholesale trade of the interior is carried on. Not only the public utilities, electric light, street railway, water works and gas works. Special attention is given to the forestry department in guarding the timber resources of the district. With an unlimited supply of wood in the mountains, there is a great future in the pulp industry. Within a radius of twenty-five miles there are twenty-five saw mills in operation. The Board of Trade of Nelson is now in communication with New York capitalists regarding the establishment of a pulp mill. Tributary to the proposed mill site are 11,200 square miles of territory from which wood supplies can be procured. The slopes, forested with timber, are easily workable. The population of the region embracing about forty thousand people, is fairly well spread over the entire area. There are about 15,000 inhabitants in ten towns and the balance are scattered on homesteads, ranches, lumber and mining camps through the district. Many a visitor to the district, especially those who are seeking capital, accept contracts for delivery of logs, trees, shingles, cedar poles and other products from the lands and there are a number of forest operators around the lake. It is computed that nearly 11 million cords of pulpwood are cut each year enough to last one hundred and fifty years, figuring three hundred cords per day.

The maximum distance of raw material from Nelson is thirty-five miles and an average of thirty-five miles. There are excellent natural camps for the market, and there is abundant land for the development of the forest. The Kootenay can make other appeals to the world. Foresters are still to be made by extracting her precious minerals from the earth and leaving the trees for the future. But she has another treasure to offer, the water in the little valleys that give the Kootenay its life.

S.S. Kusanook

(1) Nelson, B.C., beautifully situated beside mountains and lakes.
(2) The S.S. Kusanook, one of the C.P.R. boats plying the Arrow Lakes in the Kootenay District.

—uses are rich fruit lands. These are exceptional advantages in diversified farming, where are combined dairying and the production of hay, grain, poultry, eggs, sheep and a variety of small fruits and vegetables. In the district are many ex-soldiers and naval officers who are able to find considerable compensation for every leisure hour there are no waters in Canada that offer greater attractions to the sportsman or lover of the Kootenay Lake and Arrow Lakes. In the little valleys that give the Kootenay its life.

MAKING MONEY

A Big Business Man, who had been very Successful in Business, once said:

"The only place I know of where money is made without Advertising is in a Government Mint."

The Best Advertising Medium is the Weekly Newspaper

JOB PRINTING

The Review has one of the Best Equipped Printing Plants of any Town in Alberta, and is prepared to turn out all kinds of Job Work, from a Calling Card to a large Poster. When in need of anything in this line please give us a call.

The Review will cost you only $2.00 per year. Why not Subscribe Today and keep posted on what is going on in this neighborhood.

Pithy Paragraphs For Busy People

THE WEEK'S NEWS IN TERSE TERMS

Died From Injuries

George Mohr, of Dabokah, a settler, twenty-two miles southwest of Winnipeg, washed his overalls in gasoline, a few days ago after thrashing. He then almost mindlessly struck a match on the drum. The contact of sulphur with the gas caused a small explosion. The flames spread quickly and Mohr died from his injuries after being brought to the hospital in Winnipeg.

Publication Suspended

For the first time in 122 years, no morning papers appeared in Liverpool, England, recently, and no evening papers for the first time in fifty-two years. This is due to a strike of newspaper compositors in that city and in Manchester, who are striking for more pay. For the first time in seventy-five years the Manchester Guardian failed to appear.

Large Coal Mines to Be Opened

The H. A. Ford and P. Burns coal properties, which lie in the Highway and Sheep Creek valleys respectively, will be developed soon, through the medium of railway facilities. These mines can supply all Canada for 100 years. Sixteen seams have been opened up on the Ford holdings and fourteen on the Burns.

Alberta Able to Furnish Saskatchewan With Coal

Only a shortage of cars and miners will prevent Alberta from providing Manitoba and Saskatchewan with coal next winter. Alberta coal of good grade retails in Winnipeg at $14.75, which is a shade more than $4.00 a ton above the Calgary price. The freight rate causes the difference.

Shot Self Accidentally

George Waterson, recently accidentally shot himself on his farm at Queen's Valley, near Winnipeg. He had been riding on a hayrack, carrying a loaded gun. He threw the gun to the ground before dismounting. The gun struck the ground, but first, exploded and the charge entered the man's thigh.

Too Many Inhabitants

Continental immigrants insist on coming to Canada, in contravention of the regulations and such a number of them are continually turned back that the Immigration Department has sent sharply worded cables to consular officials in Europe, warning them against bringing such people in. They are mostly Poles and Rumanians. They are not wanted from Canada if relatives or friends here send them prepaid tickets or if they come from their homes on a continuous journey, but, however, they come indirectly and thus are not eligible. All of them planning to stay in Canada are making for the cities and some of them are trying to get into the States by the back way. A large number have been rejected and taken back at the expense of the steamship companies.

Married in The North Sea

Last Saturday afternoon Captain Pedersen, a skipper on one of the best known Norwegian lines was married on a steam tug in the North Sea. The bride, a Norwegian lady who has been seven years in San Francisco, returned to Norway for the wedding and found that the prospective bridegroom had orders to sail for America, instead of returning as he expected to his native country. She traveled to England, met him at Newcastle and finding that marriage there was impossible owing to neither party having reached the necessary twenty-one days in the country, they chartered a steam tug and with the aid of the pastor of the Norwegian Sailors' Church at North Shields were married on the deck of the tug after she had passed the regulation three mile limit from the mouth of the River Tyne. The religious ceremony was performed later in the day at the North Shields Norwegian Church. The bride was attended on both occasions by two Norwegian bridesmaids, all three being attired in white and carrying bouquets of carnations.

Americans Fined

It is reported that there is a great increase in the theft of small articles from large stores. Two second class passengers of the Olympic, Elv, under the command of Captain Harbert Ambler of California, stated by the police to be English people coming home for a holiday, were fined $100.00 or a month's imprisonment for the theft of two silver-plated ash trays from the first class saloon bar of the vessel. They pleaded guilty and said they took the articles as mementoes of the voyage. They also added that had they not been under the influence of liquor they would not have taken the ash trays.

Fuch Secures Famous Head

Maximilian Fuch has been looking for some time, in vain for a house in Paris and the Government have recently come to his rescue and he has been offered the use of a house which was made famous during the hearing of the Dreyfus case and was at that time occupied by the famous Second Bureau which dealt with espionage affairs, and it was here that Lieutenant-Col. Picquart began the patient investigation that helped to bring about the retrial and acquittal of Dreyfus.

Had To Eat Ten Tubs

George Lynch of Brooklyn could stand it no longer when his wife made him eat from a tub, while he bowed at the table. He then decided to get another wife which he did and had consequently to face a charge of bigamy. The court heard his wife with sympathetic ears and let him go on condition that he support his first wife and his mother.

New Commandant

Captain General D. M. Ormond, who assumed command of M.D. 12 district in succession to Brigadier General A. Ross, has arrived in Regina from Ottawa, where he has had the command of "A" division R.C.M.P.

New Domestic

Twenty-three domestic servants from the British Isles arrived in Montreal recently and were given a warm reception. The news of their coming got ahead in the city and Deschênes house was attacked by an army of servant seekers. Ladies attired in the latest Parisian creations, in limousines and touring cars besieged the institution. Competition was so keen that three or four ladies surrounded one girl, and eventually bundled them all into a taxi and baggage in the waiting automobiles, the confusion being so great as a result that the matron of the institution lost track of the girls and do not know where the twenty-three have gone, and the original employer who had paid the girls' passage money in advance are without girls and money.

Born Struck—Two Killed

Joseph Lamontagne, 20 and George Labrecque, 20, of St. Norbert, Bellefleur county were instantly killed when a barn they were approaching was struck by lightning, in a severe storm which was passing over the district.

Tennis Matches Sometimes End in Tennis Matches

An Involved Arrangement

A discharged Austrian soldier who was lately informed by his wife that his wife's death, is now living with two wives and two children in Vienna. After receiving the news Bauer married another woman in Siberia where he had been a prisoner of war. When he returned to his home he came face to face with his first wife and two children. He immediately married her. His first wife followed him and lodged the chief of police to discharge him, stating that she was willing to live with him and his second wife. The chief consented and the couple turned home and all are now living harmoniously together. The first wife even went to the length of providing a festive meal in honor of the homecoming of her husband and rival.

Three Killed at Niagara

Two women and a man were crushed to death and two men injured at Niagara Falls recently, when a slide of shale forced out a bridge leading to a stairway in the Cave of the Winds under Niagara Falls. A party of more tourists who were in the cave at the time had narrow escapes, many being bruised and cut by the falling rock.

Auto Dasher Over Precipice

Six people in a touring car near Paris, France, had recently a very narrow escape from death. When descending a hill the chauffeur lost control of the car and it dashed forward at terrific speed and fell, 1,250 feet over a precipice into a ravine. None of the occupants of the car sustained injuries more serious than a few bruises.

Bible All-Sufficient

Hon. W. A. Turgeon, attorney general for Saskatchewan, on going through Montreal recently, was interviewed, and stated that the Memorialists in Saskatchewan who were the first who came to Canada were the chief ones re-memorating against the provincial law that they are comparatively a minority of the whole Mennonite community. They put their faith exclusively to the Bible and consider it as an all sufficient source of education. They decline to accept modern ideas of education. Mr. Turgeon intimated that they were an exemplary people, law abiding, industrious, and honest. Mr. Turgeon considered they should do well in Quebec, as there was no such legislation as caused their discomfiture in Saskatchewan.

10,000 for Eight Hour Day

The painters, decorators and paper-hangers of New York at a mass meeting recently voted to strike if they were not paid at the rate of $10.00 per day for an eight hour day. The plumbers have also presented an ultimatum for a forty-four hour week, $9.00 a day minimum, no holidays a year and the outlay of overtime to urgent necessities. Double pay is wanted for work on Sundays, holidays and after regular hours.

Tied to a Cow

A nine year old boy at Freeport, Ill., was recently bound and tied to a cow by two playmates and dragged half a mile before the animal stopped. He will probably die.

Lo-Cal. Denial Celebrates Eighty-first Birthday

"Lo-Cal" Denial celebrated his 81st birthday in Appleton, Wis. He has published a book entitled "Recollections" and states that in over forty years as magistrate he has never been out of the law in going to the bench.

Longshoremen's Strike

It is reported that 4,000 longshoremen in New York, Irish immigrants, have gone out on strike in support of the Irish movement. The men declared they would not load or discharge a ship flying the Union Jack until England allowed Archbishop Mannix on Irish soil and released the Lord Mayor of Cork from prison.

Skull in Vat

At the plant of the Consolidated Rubber Company in Montreal a gruesome discovery was made when a skull and found floating in a vat of boiling rubber. This find is said to explain the disappearance of a worker in the plant last week. The man, whose name is Ludwig Miller, was thought merely to have left the plant without notice. The vat is to be emptied to trace further remains.

Woman to Swim Channel

Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, daughter of the late Sir Charles and Lady Fannie Cunningham, started at Margaret's Bay recently in an attempt to swim the English Channel. She was forced to abandon the attempt near the South Goodwin Sands. Mrs. Hamilton is the oldest woman to have made the attempt since the failure of Annette Kellerman fifteen years ago. Mrs. Hilda Willing, an English woman, intends to attempt swimming the Channel in the near future.

A Welcome Gift

For twenty years, Charles Callan, of Fulton Market, Chicago, carried the mail to and fro on the occasion of the last anniversary of his service was presented with a new $1,000 bill by the business men of the district.

To Take Census

Arrangements are almost completed for the decennial census of Canada next year. It will be taken early in June on a date to be decided later, and 12,000 enumerators will be employed. From calculations which are based on the average increase in the past twenty years, it is estimated that the present population of Canada is eight and three quarters. The next census will exceed quarter millions, with the increase most marked in the western provinces and all previous ones in the extensive area to be covered in the enumeration.

Retire Employees

It is stated that 240 employees are to be retired in the coming year. The retire branch of the service and the branch to be re-organized within ten days. The question as to whether or not the government will drop out of the fish business has not been yet decided.

Cattle for Orient

A valuable shipment of nineteen head of Jersey cattle entered Canada through North Portal a few days ago. Bound for Kai Fung, Hono, China, being going to the Shanghai College there. They were selected from some of the best herds in the United States, including a Jersey bull from Thornbury farm, Libertyville, Ill., and a heifer from Fallin's Jersey herd, Fallin, Texas. The largest farm of its kind in the world. A further donation will be added at Vancouver from Caranston Stock Farm, Seattle, Wash., and Hollywood Farm, Sacramento, Cal. The shipment is valued at over $10,000.

Dry Forces in Swift Current

C. E. Bray has been appointed registrar for Swift Current in connection with the personal registration between September 13 and 18 for all who wish to vote on the liquor referendum. Rev. Hugh Deben of Prince Albert, and Rev. C. E. Endicott of Saskatoon, delivered addresses on the issue this week and the campaign for the city and district is now said to be under way.

Loss Homes and Crops in Fire

Sixteen farmers in the district of Rose de Lee, Manitoba, have lost their homes, barns, implements and crops in bush fires which have been laying waste the area during the last few days, according to an official report by provincial authorities. Some thousands of acres of hay land and hundreds of tons of cut hay have been destroyed in the northern part of the province.

Conference Regarding Grasshoppers

An international conference on the methods of combating the grasshopper plague is to be held at Winnipeg in October. The conference is to be held at the request of A. C. Durill of the United States department of agriculture, who interviewed Mr. Evans to obtain information regarding the menace, and particularly as to whether the pest. Mr. Durill estimated the loss in the Dakotas at $4,000,000.

Auto Racer Dead

Harry H. Hawkey, the racer, injured in the automobile accident on the course at Winnipeg recently, died from his injuries.

Orphans For Toronto

Local Jewish charitable organizations met recently to consider the bringing of several thousand Jewish orphans to Toronto from Russia. A committee was appointed to do the temporary organization work as the meeting was favorable to the proposal.

Alms Burned to Death

Isidor Brown, of Belleville, Ont., was recently burned to death recently, by setting fire to his clothing while playing with a box of matches.

Appointed to Board

Mr. Shortt of Ottawa has been appointed vice-chairman of the Ontario Mother's Allowance Board. Rev. Dr. Bryce of Toronto is chairman.

A Tragedy

A young lady, named May Casey, twenty years of age, was shot and instantly killed by a farmer named John Neil, at Mud Lake near West Port. Miss Casey had come from Ottawa and was spending a holiday with some friends. On the evening upon which the shot was fired she, and a young man named Gilles were sitting on a cliff overlooking John Neil's house, between eight and nine o'clock. They had a flashlight and it is stated they were shining this into the farmer's windows, which annoyed him and he shot in the direction of the light with a rifle. Neil admitted that he fired the shot, but said he had no intention of killing anyone, he simply meant to scare them away. He is held on a charge of manslaughter.

Burns Killed

Max Seibert was fined $40.00, in Regina, recently, for throwing two kittens into a furnace and thereby causing their death. The fine was administered under the penalty for "Cruelty to Animals." We would expect that a cat o' nine tails would be more effective in such a case.

Woman Killed By Lightning

According to a telegram received by the provincial police from Constable Neld, Mrs. John Hendry, of Hayes, Sask., was killed by lightning during a storm in that district recently.

Persuade Men to Stop Work

At Boston recently a number of pickets have been going around the docks endeavoring to persuade the men to stop unloading British ships. Owing to the rain the pickets efforts were only extended one line to the Nippon, upon which the men quit work.

Elevator Falls Ten Stories

An elevator in a New York building, carrying eighteen persons, fell ten stories recently during the "rush" period. Two people were killed outright and sixteen injured. The car fell from the first floor which prevented "floor" of life, that it crashed to the basement.

Request Increase

Negotiations are shortly to begin in Winnipeg regarding an increase of wages and revision of working conditions affecting approximately 6,000 clerks and journeymen in the city. The C.P.T.U. lines between Armstrong and Port Arthur, Ont., and Prince Rupert and Vancouver. It is understood that a general advance of about 27 per cent in wages is to be asked by the men's representatives.

Wrangle's Forces Pulling Back

General Wrangle's forces are reported to be falling back throughout the region north of the Crimea. The Bolsheviks have crossed the Dnieper in three places at several points. Cavalry raiders are said to have captured Alexandrov. General Makinow, who is co-operating with the Wrangle forces, attacking the Reds from the rear. He is reported to have captured Mahmut, and to have executed the Bolshevik commissaries and other Soviet sympathizers at that place.

Sell Goods at Normal Price

The board of commerce have issued an order to the effect that dealers in groceries, clothing, and other necessities, shall not be allowed to sell their merchandise at a profit or at a discount for the sale of goods at the normal price. It is urged that they consider this duty to enhance the price.

Mennonites Leave For Quebec

More than 4,000 Mennonites of the old stock will leave Manitoba for the district of Abitibi, in Quebec, if the report of their investigation, who are returning from an inspection trip are reassuring. Mr. R. Fletcher, deputy minister of education in the province, who is one of the most enlightened and wise and completely understands the requirements of the education act.

A Loved Symbol

Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue, New York, in his address at the Temple Emmanuel in Montreal recently said: "Ezra is the teacher in Jewish life who served in any pulpits under the British flag. His flag has been a loved symbol of the Jewish people for centuries."

Taxists in Revolt

Revolutionary outbreaks against the Bolsheviks are reported among the Taxists. The disturbance have been caused by the increased cost of living which is now twenty times greater than in the Soviet government was instituted.

Alms Burned to Death

Isidor Brown, of Belleville, Ont., was recently burned to death recently, by setting fire to his clothing while playing with a box of matches.

Appointed to Board

Mr. Shortt of Ottawa has been appointed vice-chairman of the Ontario Mother's Allowance Board. Rev. Dr. Bryce of Toronto is chairman.

A Tragedy

A young lady, named May Casey, twenty years of age, was shot and instantly killed by a farmer named John Neil, at Mud Lake near West Port. Miss Casey had come from Ottawa and was spending a holiday with some friends. On the evening upon which the shot was fired she, and a young man named Gilles were sitting on a cliff overlooking John Neil's house, between eight and nine o'clock. They had a flashlight and it is stated they were shining this into the farmer's windows, which annoyed him and he shot in the direction of the light with a rifle. Neil admitted that he fired the shot, but said he had no intention of killing anyone, he simply meant to scare them away. He is held on a charge of manslaughter.

Burns Killed

Max Seibert was fined $40.00, in Regina, recently, for throwing two kittens into a furnace and thereby causing their death. The fine was administered under the penalty for "Cruelty to Animals." We would expect that a cat o' nine tails would be more effective in such a case.

Woman Killed By Lightning

According to a telegram received by the provincial police from Constable Neld, Mrs. John Hendry, of Hayes, Sask., was killed by lightning during a storm in that district recently.

Persuade Men to Stop Work

At Boston recently a number of pickets have been going around the docks endeavoring to persuade the men to stop unloading British ships. Owing to the rain the pickets efforts were only extended one line to the Nippon, upon which the men quit work.

"How Delicious"

is the opinion of all who have once tried

If you have not tried it, send us a post card for a free sample, stating the price you now pay for it. If you use Black, Green or Mixed Tea. Address Salada, Toronto

TALES OF OUR YUKON COUNTRY

SOME CHRONICLES OF THE DAYS OF THE WAR PARTY AND THE BUFFALO—STORIES TOLD AROUND THE FIRES OF THE HUNTING CAMPS OF BYGONE DAYS

The R.N.W.M.P. in The Far North and South African War

A YUKON MURDER—A LONG CHASE FOR A CRIMINAL—RETRIBUTION—SOUTH AFRICAN WAR—THE CONTRIBUTION OF MOUNTED POLICE—MOBILIZATION AT REGINA—STRATHCONA HORSE

There was not very much serious crime in the Yukon territory which came under the jurisdiction of the N.W.M.P., chiefly owing to the wholesome terror which was inspired by the redcoats and the minds of the criminal population. The prospector left Dawson for a remote creek, or for the outside, but what he had been about the whole course of his journey. If he disappeared into the wilderness at one point it was noted, and the men of the nearest detachment were watching for his appearance. Caches and provisions were left along the trail all the way from Dawson to the coast, and, as a general rule were perfectly safe.

Robbery and Murder

There were two notable murders, however, in July, 1902. The body of a dead man was found near Indian River. There were bullet marks in his body. It was evident he had been shot, but there was nothing to identify him with the exception of a key ring containing three small keys and a tag. On the tag was the name Bouhilleux Beauce, P.Q.

The police at once took the matter up and telegraphed the dispatch to Quebec, and it was discovered that a man by that name had left for the Yukon in June. Further enquiry elicited the fact that he had written from Vancouver a few weeks before, stating he had left for Dawson with two French Canadians named Constant and Beaudoin.

Detective Work

The detective of the force went to work and discovered that the three men had arrived at White Horse on June 15, and left for Dawson the next day, and other French Canadians having joined their party. The N.W.M.P. had every body passing up the river numbered and it was traced.

SALESMEN WANTED

In every road town and district, in the Yukon territory, is required a man to sell and distribute all kinds of goods, including hardware, stationery, and other goods. The man must be a Canadian, and must be able to speak French and English. The man must be able to travel and must be able to sell. The man must be able to travel and must be able to sell. The man must be able to travel and must be able to sell.

closed that Bouhilleux's boat was numbered at White Horse No. 3744. Its arrival had been registered at Dawson. It was finally discovered at Klondike city. Shortly afterwards another body was found which was identified as that of Beaudoin, one of the companions of Bouhilleux.

Tracking The Murderers

A member of the force at Dawson, named Burns, went out on the day. He was not very well known and he was killed. He spoke French fluently and frequented all the places where French Canadians were. He found out that two French Canadians named Fournier and Labelle, had gone down the river from Dawson and had changed their names. These men were discovered to be in White Horse about the time of the arrival of the party of French Canadians. Fournier was arrested at Dawson and charged with the murders of Bouhilleux and Beaudoin. There was no doubt that the two men who had gone down the river and changed their names were the guilty parties.

A Long Trail

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

of the troopers, in fact perhaps the majority had, at one time or other, seen service with that famous body. The first C.M.R. had eleven officers from the mounted police and 134 men. Strathcona's Horse had seven officers and twenty-six men. The second C.M.R. had four officers and thirty-one men, and the third C.M.R. had four officers and thirty-one men. Lt. Colonel L. W. Herchmer, commander of the force, was in command of the First C.M.R., Superintendent Joseph Howe, a nephew of the great Nova Scotia statesman, was second in command. Inspector A. C. Macdonald, who was afterwards in command of the 5th C.M.R., and who greatly distinguished himself as a General during the recent European war, and who is now in command of the Royal Military College, Kingston, was also an officer. Inspector J. D. Moody, who made the long trail from Edmonton to Dawson, was another efficient officer, while some of the others were Beggs, Inspector Wroughton, Colonel Sanders, one of the most popular and efficient officers who was ever connected with the police; Inspector Cuthbert; Inspector Davidson; Inspector Colby; Inspector Baker and Captain Jack Allan, who bore himself so bravely and was severely wounded at the battle of the Almighty Horse trouble.

Mobilized in Regina

The first C.M.R. mobilized at Regina and they were shaken down and trained there. In the early days of the winter, it was a sight to see the riding school at the barracks square in those days. Riding Master Church, who had spent many years in the Life Guards, put the men through their paces on horseback. His school was a hard one and the men who came through it were well entitled to call themselves soldiers. In the early days of the winter, it was a sight to see the riding school at the barracks square in those days. Riding Master Church, who had spent many years in the Life Guards, put the men through their paces on horseback. His school was a hard one and the men who came through it were well entitled to call themselves soldiers. In the early days of the winter, it was a sight to see the riding school at the barracks square in those days. Riding Master Church, who had spent many years in the Life Guards, put the men through their paces on horseback. His school was a hard one and the men who came through it were well entitled to call themselves soldiers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

There was a great hunt to find Labelle. Welsh of the force picked up a clue at Seattle, and after a chase through six states and his man to earth in Nevada. Labelle made a partial confession, in which he admitted to the murder of Fournier, and stated that he and his companion had taken him to White Horse with the intention of making the acquaintance of some wealthy wayfarers.

STOP LOOK and LISTEN

before purchasing a baking powder that may possibly contain injurious ingredients. Many food scientists claim that baking powder containing alum is unsafe for use in food. The mere fact that some brands of baking powder have the words "No Alum" on the label is not sufficient proof that they are what they are represented to be. Our chemists find a good many have "No Alum" on the outside but large quantities of it inside.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER
Contains No Alum
Pure Wholesome Economical

Pages from the Diary of a War Wife

A TALE OF EVERYDAY PEOPLE AND THEIR HUMAN EXPERIENCES
SOME OF THE SORROWS WHICH THE WAR IMPOSED ON A WAITING WOMAN

Albert is going west, at least we are all going west. He has secured what seems to be quite a lucrative post in a western city and says that in the meantime he will take it. He failed on one first. They say that in the city of S. housing accommodations are very poor and we must have to room for a short time. However, after a time he intends to go farming and I think myself that the wisest plan, because I am sure that strenuous life is not for him any more. His nerves are still ragged and jumpy but he says that he will be better doing something else. I should not like to give in. The last few days have been simply a bustle of getting ready to pack, and reminded me so much of those awful days before he went to the front, although even at that time I had not the heavy heart that I have now. I wonder if I will ever forget, or if this pain will someday give way to what will seem like peace and joy. I don't know that I have now to pray God for me. Dear Albert, he has not a selfish thought; he is so full of plans for me and for the Philip. "If I live," he says, in such a wistful tone, "I want to do so much for you. I want to see you. I want him to have the very best I can give him. How do you mean the best?"

"I mean in the way of training and education." I do not expect to be a wealthy man, and I don't know that wealth would be the best thing to leave the little lad, but I do want to give him a thorough education and some training which will enable him to when only a young officer under General Wolsley in the Red River expedition of 1870, and he greeted the western men as old comrades. Colonel Steele took with him to Lord Strathcona's Horse a number of mounted police officers and a detachment to himself. Inspectors P. Belcher, A. E. Snyder, A. M. Jarvis, M. C. Fraser, Inspector White, Fraser, Sergeant Major Parker and Staff Sergeant Ketchum were also included in this corps. Parker and Ketchum were afterwards granted British commissions. Staff Sergeant Ketchum was his commission in this way, although a very young man he held a commission in the Imperial Force, and greatly distinguished himself during the campaign. He was later promoted to the rank of Major and was in command of the military district in Winnipeg, and later, when he was in the ranks he was appointed Brigadier General during the recent war in Europe. After distinguished military service he returned to Western Canada, and is now the chief officer commanding M.D. 10, with headquarters at Winnipeg.

MA Amelrod

make something of himself. You are all going west, at least we are all going west. He has secured what seems to be quite a lucrative post in a western city and says that in the meantime he will take it. He failed on one first. They say that in the city of S. housing accommodations are very poor and we must have to room for a short time. However, after a time he intends to go farming and I think myself that the wisest plan, because I am sure that strenuous life is not for him any more. His nerves are still ragged and jumpy but he says that he will be better doing something else. I should not like to give in. The last few days have been simply a bustle of getting ready to pack, and reminded me so much of those awful days before he went to the front, although even at that time I had not the heavy heart that I have now. I wonder if I will ever forget, or if this pain will someday give way to what will seem like peace and joy. I don't know that I have now to pray God for me. Dear Albert, he has not a selfish thought; he is so full of plans for me and for the Philip. "If I live," he says, in such a wistful tone, "I want to do so much for you. I want to see you. I want him to have the very best I can give him. How do you mean the best?"

live on porridge, just so that their Tammy or Robby could "get up" at University." They had the right vision. They did not save up the lawbooks in a stocking to hand them, when they died. They understood that money spent in education was well spent, and an investment which would bring a high rate of interest.

I responded "Yes, I suppose that is why there are so many lost souls in Scotland, in positions of importance today. Oh, Albert! Albert, you are proud and want little Philip to be a 'big' man, eh? I teased. Philip was at that moment engaged in digging the dirt with a spoon and looked much more interested in making himself as dirty as possible than in attaining a great position in the world. However, I understood Albert's attitude and quite sympathized with him. I think the poor old fellow felt that a great deal of his vim and vital energy had gone and that he would not be able to forge ahead as fast as he might have done had his constitution not been ruined in the dreadful war, and that made him doubly anxious to be able to do something so that Philip should be able to attain the heights which were impossible for him now.

Albert left on the train this evening, and I am all alone again. I have been so long. As soon as he locates something in the way of

Perfectly Legal WILL

35c. You can make one in your own home without any legal fees for 35c. Protect your family and make sure your wishes will be carried out. "CODE" WILL FORM with complete instructions to-day at your bookseller or stationer, or send 35c to THE CUP CLARK CO. Limited, 217 Wellington St. West, TORONTO amplified and said, "You are a stranger; how is the family." I told him the latest news and he looked grave.

"So you are going to the far west?"

I replied, "Yes, and for the last time. I don't think there is a man whose eyes were filling with tears. Dick, however, understood and made no remark. We walked along silently together and then he burst out in that way of his, which is so impulsive.

"I know I shouldn't say anything Lucy, but I just want to tell you that no matter how many thousands of miles you go, no matter what you may hear of me; no matter how the years may pass, I shall not think about you. You are the one and only woman in the world for me. I intended to marry you from the time I was sixteen, and if I cannot marry you I will never marry."

I tried to be grave and maternal, but I could not rather badly am afraid, as I said:

"Dick, I wish you would not make such solemn promises; it is only flesh and natural that you should meet some nice girl and that you should marry her, and I want you to be happy because I shall understand that such a day ever come, you need not feel ashamed that I should have been so foolish. At the same time I could not help a senseless longing to understand here and now that I should have been so foolish. I and I felt that though I were half across the continent I should know where the invisible cord which seemed to bind our hearts together, should snap.

G. W. M. Employees Awarded

An agreement which has just been signed between the Great Northwestern and the G. W. M. Employees, providing for a ten per cent. increase for clerks, $10.00 per month for automatic operators and $8.00 per month for Morse operators. The monthly pay for Morse operators is $155.00 per month and for automatic operators $185.00 per month. The new conditions remain as heretofore.

WE OFFER DOMINION OF CANADA VICTORY BONDS

At the following low prices:
EXEMPT FROM INCOME TAX
1922 @ 98 and interest—yielding 6.37%
1923 @ 98 and interest—yielding 6.15%
1924 @ 97 and interest—yielding 6.00%
1925 @ 96 1/2 and interest—yielding 5.88%
1927 @ 95 and interest—yielding 5.88%

SUBJECT TO INCOME TAX
1924 @ 97 and interest—yielding 6.27

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

An emergent meeting of Quarry Lodge, A. F. & M., will be held in the lodge room next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Foster, of Edmonton, spent a few days in town this week, the guest of Mrs. John Ellis.

Mrs. Pollitt and son left last Monday evening for Edmonton, where they will visit friends for a few weeks.

Mrs. A. Tester and son Eddie, who have been visiting friends in England for the past few months, returned home last evening.

For the present the Redcliff Livery will be conducted by the Redcliff hotel and managed by D. H. Moffatt. The business will be continued in the old stand.

One of the Redcliff orchestras was engaged to play at a dance in the Odd Fellows hall, Medicine Hat, last Saturday evening and the dancers were well pleased with the class of music they gave.

Men are again busy completing the grade on the C. N. R. branch line into Redcliff. According to reports it is the intention to build the bridge over the Red Deer river this winter and commence laying the steel next spring.

Work in connection with the repairs in the different departments of the Rolling Mill here, is progressing favorably and it is expected that everything will be in better working order than ever before and operations will be continued more satisfactorily. Prospects for a busy fall and winter at this plant are practically assured.

The auction sale of the contents of E. Hube's livery barn, which took place Wednesday afternoon, turned out very successful under the management of Auctioneer Brown, of Medicine Hat. Although the crowd was not as large as was expected, those who were present there to buy and at times the bidding was spirited. Although the terms provided for credit on larger amounts, we are informed that when setting up time came cash was paid in most cases.

STRAYED—Calf, at my place in sec. 24, township 14-6, range 4th. Owner may have same by paying expenses.

LOST—On Monday evening, between Mac's Pool room and Lockwood a bunch of keys. Finder please return to Mac's Pool Room.

Lovely Spots in Pontiac County, Quebec

- (1) The Harbour at Fort William, P.Q.
- (2) Water Falls at Des Jochims along the Ottawa River.
- (3) On the beautiful sandy beach at Fort William, P.Q., there are hundreds of log seats.

The Province of Quebec is dotted with many beautiful landscapes and water scenes. Some of these are well known, but many of them have been little heard of.

For years Quebec and Campbell's Bay, Port Couillard and Bygon have been known to fishermen and sportsmen. These waters have been fished and hunted and have kept men's stills alive their exploits. But that sandy beach at Campbell's Bay, and that new swimming pool at Bygon fairly cry out for visitors, and if we know the signs, it won't be long before dozens of tourists follow the example of the few Montrealers who have kept this beautiful country a carefully-guarded secret.

In spite of its comparatively exclusive appeal, the Whistler of Pontiac county is easily accessible. The train service on the Canadian Pacific Railway from Ottawa is excellent. The whole line is eighty miles long or just half the distance from Montreal to the end of the Laurentian line. Almost all the way it skirts the Ottawa River, which furnishes picturesque, picked, and bare and delightful bathing ponds, and it will be a pleasure of cheer to the suffering seasickness to learn that there are no mosquitoes here.

Port Couillard and Campbell's Bay have good hotels, indeed "Cottages" is a model of cleanliness and homelike atmosphere — no modern and are worthy of housekeeping cars.

New Tailor Shop For Redcliff

I have purchased a business block in Redcliff and have come here to stay and open up

A First-class Tailor Shop in Every Particular

I am now putting in my stock and expect to be ready for business next week, when I will be prepared to do everything in this line

For Both Men and Women

Besides conducting a tailor shop along modern lines I will also do all kinds of Pressing, Cleaning and Repairing and can guarantee satisfaction in every particular.

Don't Order Your Fall or Winter Suit or Overcoat Until You Have Seen Me First

M. A. YARR

Stand on Broadway, Opposite Post Office.

MRS. FOSSUM

Of the Fossum Music Studio

MEDICINE HAT

Teacher of Piano and Voice will be at the home of MRS. W. J. FAIRBAIN tomorrow, (Friday) Sept. 17th for the purpose of interviewing those who may desire lessons. Should a sufficient number of Pupils be enrolled Mrs. Fossum will spend one day a week in Redcliff.

The Peace River country is due for a magnificent harvest this year, according to E. S. Archibald, director of experimental farms, who visited this region.

TOWN OF REDCLIFF.

REVISION OF VOTERS LIST.

The Voters' List of the Town of Redcliff is now completed, and may be inspected at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., except Saturday, and on that day between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

Any person having the necessary qualification and whose name has been omitted from the List, is requested to immediately make application to this office, in order that his or her name may be added.

F. H. COURTNEILL,

Secretary-Treasurer.

September 8th, 1930.

JUDICIAL SALE OF TOWN PROPERTY.

Pursuant to an Order for Sale, there will be sold by Public Auction by Edward Logan Chudleigh, Medicine Hat, at the Court House, in the City of Medicine Hat, on Friday, the 24th day of September, 1930, at 12 noon, the following property:

Lots 11 to 38 inclusive, in Block I, Plan 1461-A.V., Redcliff. The above property will be sold subject to a reserve bid and subject to the Certificates of Title. The Vendor is informed that the said lands are situated about one-half mile from the Redcliff Post Office and immediately adjoining the western boundary of the Town of Redcliff, and are unimproved.

TERMS:—Half cash, balance within sixty (60) days.

Further particulars may be had from Messrs. Short & Fraser, Barristers, Union Bank Building, Medicine Hat, Alberta.

DATED at Medicine Hat, Alberta, this 3rd day of September, 1930.

S. A. WALLACE,

Clerk of the Court.

A former American, Charles Nobel, is the head of the greater share in the world. It contains 18,167 acres, has 9,000 acres in wheat, will produce $1,000,000 revenue this year. It is situated at Redford, Alberta.

Notice to Creditors

All accounts owing to E. Hube, of the Redcliff Livery Barn must be settled by Sept. 30th, otherwise they will be handed in for collection. Avoid additional expense by paying on or before the date mentioned above.

E. H. HUBE, Prop.

Mrs. Washburn has the Redcliff

A gency for

SPIRELLA CORSETS

A call is solicited at her residence on Fourth street north.

Are You Contemplating Putting on LIFE INSURANCE

If So Insure in the Best Co.

THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA

Of this company the Insurance Times said: "The Mutual of Canada is among the best dividend payers in America." "Toronto Saturday Night" said: "I consider the Mutual Life of Canada one of the best managed companies in Canada or on the continent."

C. D. SCOTT

Agent for Redcliff

LODGE DIRECTORY

GREAT WAR VETERANS ASSOC.

Redcliff Branch. Regular Meetings first Monday night in each month. Visiting Brothers Welcome. C. D. SCOTT, L. S. KEARNEY, President. Sec-Treas. Ladies' Auxiliary to G. W. V. A. meets in Club Rooms second Wednesday of each month.

I. O. O. F.

REDCLIFF, LODGE, No. 90.

Meets in Crow's Hall every Wednesday evening at 7.30. Visiting Brothers Welcome. D. McLAHLAN, N. G. W. S. SMITH, Recording Secretary.

QUARRY LODGE, No. 70.

A. F. & A. M.

Regular Communication, First Tuesday of each month. Visiting Brothers Welcome. H. W. HARPER, E. L. STONE, Master. Secretary.

SONS OF ENGLAND

BENEFIT SOCIETY,

LODGE ROSEBERG No. 10.

Meets second and fourth Tuesdays of each month in Crow's hall. Visiting Brothers Welcome. J. KITCHEN, President. F. H. COURTNEILL, Secretary. P. O. Box 162.

F. S. RATLIFF & CO.

Farm Loans

Hail Insurance

Victory Bonds bought and sold

Financial Agents Telephone 2681

217-225 Sixth Avenue

Medicine Hat, Alta.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

FRANK BAIRD,

Barrister, Solicitor, Notary

Public, Etc.

Office, Crow Building, Phone 79,

REDCLIFF, ALBERTA.

DR. A. W. HICKS,

Physician and Surgeon,

Office opposite Imperial Bank, in the Lockwood Block, Broadway.

UNDERTAKING

JESSOP NOTT

Medicine Hat and Redcliff

Local Agent

FRED ODIN,

Furniture Dealer

CHESTER'S CHAMBERS

LIVERY

Stand at Hesser's

Phone 73, Rail dance Phone 30

LIGHT DRAYING

All orders, honed to the Atlas Lumber yard, Phone No. 11, or to C. F. R. Station, No. 3, will be promptly attended to.

GOOD SERVICE

GUARANTEED

J. L. WRIGHT

Plumbing & Tinsmithing

Pumps, Gasoline Engines

Iron Pipes and Fittings,

Eave Troughs, Stove

Pipes Etc.

Also a First Class Stock

Of Gas and Plumbing

Supplies.

A. Maskell

Opposite C. F. Office,

Third Street.

THE VALUE OF MONEY

Money—ready money is an essential in every line of business—mercantile or farming. Wise farmers build up Savings Accounts, which enable them to purchase for cash.

A Savings Bank Account with this Bank assures ready money when needed. Interest paid at current rate.

IMPERIAL BANK

OF CANADA

REDCLIFF BRANCH,

P. C. ROUTLEDGE, Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.

Manager.